Country nomenclature

The second edition of the Country nomenclature GEOBEL has been enlarged with the main currencies (ISO 4217), capitals and official languages. ISO-code XAF stands for the CFA franc of Central African countries and XOF for the CFA franc of West African countries.

From now on we distinguish between the Faroe and Denmark, as well as between the British Indian and the Seychelles and between Aruba and the Dutch Antilles. The islands of the American and the Australian Pacific are listed separately.

The designation Serbia and Montenegro (CS) replaces Yugoslavia (YU) and Timor Leste (TL) takes the place of East Timor (TP).

On the following pages the reader will find the list of countries that have been recognised from 1990 until 2004 (page xx). This list, as well as the following index (page xx) is available in the three national languages of Belgium and in English.

The countries or regions are represented by a double code system: an alphabetical 2-letter code that corresponds with the ISO-3166 norm and a numeric code that is common for Statistics Belgium and the National Register. Each of the few alphabetical codes that do not correspond to the ISO norm begins with the letter X. The first letter of the numeric codes fixes the continent: 1 for Europe, 2 for Asia, 3 for Africa, 4 and 5 for America, 6 for Oceania and finally 7 and 9 for Other. The character preceding the text about the country refers to the appropriate map.

Country codes that are no longer up to date are between brackets.

For each continent the list of countries is given in alphabetical order. Observations indicate the principal territories where countries exercise sovereignty, explain the ins and outs of recent changes, give some ancient denominations and specify the citizenship in case it differs from the country.

In order not to overload the index the citizenship only refers to the most recent situation. The reader who wants to retrace a past situation will find all necessary elements through the observations on the countries. In the index, countries are distinguished from regions by bold characters.
